

'Isabella' and 'Enzo'

The award winning eco collection from free-range furniture designer Ryan Frank

Ryan Franks totem pole style stacking stools perfectly combine style and sustainability. The iconic shape draws inspiration from traditional hand carved African seating. Avoiding the use of exotic hard woods, the stools are made from a solid section of Strawboard or Spruce Ply and then wrapped in 100% wool felt. Made from sustainable materials the stools come in a range of bold colours and finishes.

This fun and functional collection of stools represent stylish & practical seating arrangements for any interior space. They can easily be stacked on top of each other when not in use. The choice of 2 materials and multiple finishes opens possibilities for usage in any environment – whether you like straw, spruce, wool or a stained color.

Isabella- Straw ▼

'Isabella -straw' originally launched in 2008, is made from straw and wool. The use of wool makes for a more comfortable, tactile product and is available in a selection of bold colors.

Isabella -Spruce

'Isabella - spruce' arrived a few months later, complimenting the range and offering a different look and reduced price.

Enzo ▶

Enzo the felt-free version of the stool represents a more budget, rugged option keeping the same iconic shape as Isabella but constructed from a solid section of spruce ply. The product comes in a selection of colourful wood stains.
